A Case in Point: Duke of Edinburgh Achievement Pack

DG3 was commissioned by the Duke of Edinburgh Award scheme to provide a secure and intelligent achievement book so that their participants could have the freedom to personalise and record their memories of participating on the programme. As the Duke of Edinburgh participants are young, creative and highly computer literate our solution had to reflect those traits. The result is a high quality lasting memento allowing participants to record their experiences through text, pictures and movies.

Once a young person has completed their Duke of Edinburgh award they are able to create their Achievement Pack online and then download it as a free e-version so they can showcase their achievement with friends and family all over the world. They can then have it professionally printed and bound in a variety of high quality finishes enabling them to have a personalised hard copy of their achievement. Apart from serving as a personal memento for the participant, it can also be shown to future employees to make a lasting impression in an interview and assist as proof of the award.

The format of the pack is a fitting testament to everything the young people have learnt and achieved through taking part on the scheme and as such the product was given the royal seal of approval by HRH, The Earl of Wessex.
